Sequencias introduces MaSpaventi to their catalog with this EP called Le Cose Che Sentivo, which is a mixture of tempos with a melancholic feeling spread throughout. The dexterity of MaSpaventi is shown on this one; from the funky drum programming and melodic lushness of "Una Piccola Amaca" on the A-side, to the more ethereal downtempo/ambient side of him with "Profondo Blu" and "Coralli Lia" on the B-side

This vocal-heavy EP expands on its techno skeleton towards many other genres, exploring the sonic tropes of styles such as hip hop or gothic punk within a solid 4/4 format. Each of these five tracks is the reflection of the artists' will to always go the extra mile and try and keep things innovative. From the gothic imperium of 1 Inspiration Delicti, unnerving drive of Crackland to the trap-fueled moody relentlessness of Funfair, all tracks serve an aesthetic goal while keeping the low-end tight and the pace high

FUNK / SOUL	Release: 10 - April - 2020	ESP
A1 > don't give up B1 > sweet touch of love ZULU MEN is a musical project loaded with a big taste of New Orleans sound. Music influenced by artists like Dr. John, Allen Toussaint, Trombone Shorty, The Meters and many other important names from the southwest of Louisiana. A fresh and original performance that they have been playing live in many clubs, festivals and different venues all around Spain. Their latest work is a new vinyl single released in March 2020 in partnership with the musical magazine Enlace Funk. The A side is an original song called "Don't Give Up" that approaches the characteristic Second Line rhythm of the New Orleans parades, combined with a lively melody that goes right to the ear of the listeners to move their bodies from top to toe. Also, wanting to honor the figure of the legend Allen Toussaint, who gave his last concert in Madrid, the B side is a cover of one of his biggest hits, "Sweet Touch of Love", revisited in an energetic instrumental and up-tempo version. The mysterious growth called Bonsai EP also takes root directly with the first track "Into Yam" on the dancefloor and fills body and soul with energetic groove and flourish sounds. The original, created by Tantum, Samer Soltan & Oluhle, is also sent into a world of juicy breaks and sweaty expressions of love by label owners Super Flu in a detailed, powerful and club-oriented remix spaceship. In a subtle 80ies colouring Dürerstuben are driving the track "Into Yam" with their realmix through the landscape and souped it up with vocoders and interlaced breaks, to whiz to the sunrise with piano chords and analog synths. On the track "Bonsai" Tantum combines sharply lit synths, deep drums and filigree percussions with a soft groove that slowly but surely captivates all senses

B1 > abstracted possibilities

Title track "Green Carrot" delivers nifty percussion arrangements while gloomy pads and synths are working together to glue all the elements into one piece. A2 track "Different Spaces" gives you robust kick drums and an acid themed bassline. Obscure vocals and shiny leitmotifs are conducting the percussive elements along 6 minutes of dance-driven groove. The B side starts with Abstracted Possibilities, a smart construction filled with twisted synths and intriguing vocals. The snares and hi-hats are making the omnipresent narrator throughout 7 minutes of pure storytelling. Omega Break, as the title suggests, concludes the release by entering the breakbeat realm. Its percussions and pads bring instant joy. Early support by Raresh

Following on from his debut Arken Records 12", (a limited- to 100 run which gained him support from the likes of Bradley Zero, Jimpster & more) Munro enlists the help of long time friends Um River & Bard, and fellow Future Bubblers participant Revenu, delivering four upfront, forward-thinking and uncompromising tracks. From the deep, acid driven, broken beats of Bards 'Tatala' to the cavernous, unrelenting energy of Munro's 'Fall' - each cut seems to feed from the energy of the other, twisting and turning into constantly unexpected directions. A dark modular synthesis induced atmosphere hangs heavy throughout the record creating an almost dystopian soundscape at times. A1 > pitch1	Serendipity' - defined as making discoveries or happy accidents - is the debut EP by Liam van Ryn. It's a fitting description for the richly textured and cinematic four track collection that was the result of intensive and prolonged sessions 'goofing around' on analogue gear. Strictly limited 12' pressing - this is a hell of a debut - one to watch for the future! The title track is the most immediately wonderful cut here, with choked arpeggios, clouds of caustic static and found scrapes as percussion.' DJ Mag (8/10 EP Review) Early support from: Nathan Fake - 'Interesting lush sounds' Lanark Artefax - 'Sounds great and is really coherent for a debut EP' Tessela - 'This is wicked man, really like that Pitch1!' Based in Hull, van Ryn makes richly textured and layered, cinematic music that is both experimental and (mostly) electronic. 'I was interested in the way I could make the music sound slightly unnatural, or like it couldn't be played by a real musician, even though that was often the starting point,' he explains

Formidable 3 track 12" from the far north. Sabothoka on the side A delivers a real cry for freedom in the form of an afrobeat disco dancefloor crowd pleaser that will make you smile, this track was a Rune Lindbaek floorfiller at the infamous Club Nomaden in Oslo, Norway. On Side B Changeling kicks off and does not disappoint, with its peak time acid house guitar loop, heavy head nodding drums and vocal it's a surefire winner. Finally on B2 we have Strong, a carnival style dubbed out reggae vibe with some cheeky effects and subtle flows. Long Live The Wild Pitch!

Here comes the first release from the newly formed Memory Box label, spawned from the club night of the same name who regularly throw parties celebrating the influences of today's electronic music scene whilst encapsulating some of the most memorable moments in time, and inviting legends and icons to play. The Memory Box label comes from the same stable as Groovepressure, run by Robin Ball who is the main artist on this first release. Memory Box is about keeping the Acid House culture and vibe alive so it seems fitting that the first release is dedicated to the acid sound. Acid Stomp and Back in the Dayz are homages to Acid House, whilst Acid Duck is a slice of psychedelic tech-house and Sqolch brings a more contemporary feel to the acid house sound

A1 > steppin out part 1	Mind Fair return with a deadly two-part interpretation of the Joe Jackson classic 'Steppin' Out'. For their latest Rogue Cat Sounds incarnation the Golf Channel mainstays have enlisted the indispensable talents of Charmaine Baines on vocals, Climax Blues Bands' Derek Holt (Bass & Guitar) and Alex Braabury (Sundown Drive) on keys. This slowed down, melting pot of Soca not Soca meets Lovers Rock, Reggae, Blues and soul is brought to you in two parts Part one deals mostly with the song, Charmaine's vocals sounding suitably dreamy and laid back whilst part two puts focus on the instrumental groove where the guitars, strings and Rhodes are the main attraction. Mark E provides one of his Merc Dubs on the flip which takes a Afro rhythm meets beat down central then builds intensively with Rhodes and a horn section breakdown to die for the Man is on form!

That's why we say Positive Not Happy is "Home Of Psycho House". In line with the original tracks, Stephan Bazbaz delivers a "game changing" slamming remix, in which he mixes goa-trance elements with a powerful straight house beat. Andrejko is part of the Berlin new breed becoming renowned for his dark and uncompromising closing sets at the legendary Stattbad on Sunday mornings and has gone on to get bookings further afield as a result. Both as a DJ and producer, his stripped down, hyperdriven sound is perfectly abrasive yet comes with exactly the right amount of detail to make it irresistibly hypnotic and escapist. Opener 'Eating' is bleak, futurist, Terminator techno with unrelenting drums that hit hard each and every time. Subtle rising synths add to the tension while rugged loops keep you locked to the floor. The excellent 'With' is less harsh and hard but just as perfectly distilled, with warmer rubber kicks rolling forwards at a real pace as eerie synth motifs survey a dystopian urban landscape. Closer 'Knives' shows another side again to this innovative artist as it pairs sci-fi pads with supple techno rhythms. Taking you on a trip to the outer edges of our galaxy, it has a rising sense of tension that is utterly enthralling

For the ninth release in their main label series Haven are proud to be inviting German production duo New Frames for their first full EP on the label, following on from the release of "Scatter" on Haven's first VA compilation - easily one of 2019's biggest tracks with support across the board. The A1 launches the record with the apocalyptic "Eine Andere Welt" - a true peak-time smasher showcasing the duo's production capability, with epic rave synth work, pounding drums, and crunchy sound design already proving to move international dance floors. This is followed by "Stylized Fear" on the A2, utilising broken drum patters, perilous vocal chants and threatening atmospheres in a hectic roller. The flip is kicked off with "The End Of It All" on the B1 bringing things back to slamming 4-4 territory - where ominous and powerful synth design, stomping drum rhythms, and a DnB-inspired breakdown provide another soundtrack to club madness in the duo's discography. Finally the B2 closes the record with an enormous Perc remix of the A1 tune, finishing with another potent piece of dance floor fodder from Haven

2020 repress! This new album is the product of a 2 year process. The album reflects what I love about the diversity of drum & bass and all its sub genres as well as what I enjoy playing at clubs and festivals. It was crucial to me that this new chapter was a step up in content, sound design and song writing which influenced the decision to include only solo material and even master it myself. descriptionZodiak Commune Records presents the sixth and last release of the White Cyclus series: Called ZC-KORE003 - White Cyclus VI EP. This time Zodiak Commune Records zooms in on Italian producer Acidevice. He started out in 2012, since 2016 as Acidevice. His style is a mix of Acid Techno, Hardcore Techno and lo-fi elements. All content is produced by Acidevice. For the third track he joined forces with JM23, a close friend from Spain. Acidevice (IT) - Smile Land Meet his style: banging, sinister thus painting the atmosphere. Smiling like a Dark Acid Clown hahaha! Acidevice (IT) - Fire Walk with me More poweracid. Acidevice takes you by the hand bringing Fire. Better watch out and don't get burnt. Acidevice (IT) & JM23 (ES) - Dissection of a Smile Mental Acid tale from this excellent team. We know you Love it!! Acidevice (IT) - Bloody Hit Tasty closing tune. Bang bang! Think you just took a Bloody Hit

B5 > outro (cafe de gam)

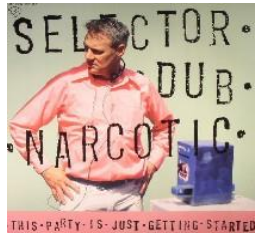

Rarely has a band had a more fitting name than HEISA: three grounded blokes from Limburg with musical gold in their hands. Possessed yet measured. Uneasy yet mesmerising. Disorienting yet catchy. HEISA is all of these things and preferably at the same time. In the best tradition of unconventional bands ranging from Tool across Battles to Warpaint, Jacques Nomdefamille (also Peuk), Koen Castermans and Jonathan Frederix have forged ten songs that run the gamut from surprise and enchantment to castigation. On their maiden full-length 'joni', HEISA plays around with rhythms, atmospheres and keyboards while choosing their moments to break the painstakingly constructed tension with punishing guitars and waves of distortion. The vocals do not monopolise the listener's attention but instead complement the other instruments. The result is an entirely unique sound. On the road HEISA leaves a trail of destruction in its wake. Their live shows are exciting, surprising, slightly theatrical and explore the boundaries of the humanly bearable. Those who have had the privilege of seeing HEISA live become a fan once the experience has had the chance to sink in
