Brain child of Swiss DJ and Producer, Sandro Kuhne which sees the first release as a split EP between himself and Romanian talent Arapu, a fast rising name of the minimal house scene and who's track "Pe Final" is a sweet somber thrill of groove and moodiness, tight kick and high hats, punching along with a snappy snare wrapping over a subtle melody and tight bass line. After hours or early sun rise set, this track has the fuel ready to ignite. For the B-side we are spoilt with two tracks from Sandro Kuhne, the first entitled "Ephemeral" being a no holds bar intense groover, full of flickering sounds and cuts, stabs and detail. This one has a relentless energy and attitude to become a classic dance floor killer. The second song is "Sonorous" and is the deeper of the two, packing punch and funk while bringing in the atmospheric and trippy happy hands in the air vibes, smiles will be on faces when this one drops

A1 > hidden	Runemark Records comes back with yet another vinyl and the twelfth release in the label catalogue which combines two probably the most creative and popular artists from Lithuania - Ten Walls and Daddy Was A Milkman. The duo's collaboration has lead into a strong and beautiful EP called 'Hidden' and includes two original compositions and a remix from Ten Walls. The title track lifts above reality and holds energy with tight rhythms, deep atmosphere and crystal vocals on top. Suitable for every dancefloor as well as to enjoy privately. The second original composition in the pack is called 'Airglow'. It's another strong statement and is no less than the title track. Last but not least comes Ten Walls' remix for Ink' that can be found in Ten Walls Queen' album vinyl edition. Cozy and at the same time massive sounding remix is even more calibrated for the dance floors than the original. Ten Walls delivers highest quality as always. EP is available in a vinyl format, later on also in digital format. Enjoy the music! Runemark team

Soul Imago returns with a murky three song EP from the relatively unknown Italian producer Ruff Degan. The song titles describe the songs well taking us on a melancholy journey of sound with the uptempo grooves and beats of "Anxiety Always" into the still sad but optimistic mid tempo chugger "Mind Garden" and closing out with the techno abstractions of "Shortness Breath". Anxiety is a continuous theme throughout this EP but serves as a bit of therapy for some of us who are far too familiar with these emotions and conditions. After all, sometimes knowing you're not alone in feeling this way can be the best medicine. Dim the lights, spark a spiff and let your mind go where the music takes you. This one will take you on a strange dark and beautiful trip into the unknown

Coming hot on the heels of their debut release (a stunning record by ROAR), French imprint WORK IN PROGRESS returns here in triumphant and eclectic fashion courtesy of a record that does their reputation as serious party-starters no harm at all. Again featuring the talents of ROAR, this is a dizzyingly eclectic record that fans of smile-inducing house and disco are sure to admire especially. The A1, the title track, 'I Wanna This Record' is a case in point. A really vibe-heavy disco-centric track that's notable for its killer vocals and acid techno flashes, it's an unlikely gem of the sort that will light up any floor. For their contribution, London duo The Willers Brothers turn the track on its head, opting instead for a more straight-up, 4/4 remix. Muscular and full of wonders, it's without doubt a neat addition to the original's charms. The B side sees ROAR side up with Zolbaran courtesy of another cheeky and playful track, 'Neukolin Baila La Bamba' Starting toward pop sensibilities in a manner not dissimilar to Kompakt, this one pulls at the heartstrings in much the same way that Gui Boratto's best work does. An emotive, pleasure-seeking cut that's hard not to love, that's for sure

A1 > consequences	Having won approval and success in its debut release, the splnch vinyl series continues with the release of a second record from Wiesbaden producer - Peter Fanai. Weighty, spacious bass pleiades fill the sound field, erase the consequences of duality and, flowing into the viscous full-bodied substance of verified sound design, it would seem that they will momentarily shift the tectonic plates of the electronic genre. Maestro Basicnoise is again involved in the spatial enrichment of textural proportions of reverberation and percussion. This time, their sequence runs under the quality mark of the Australian-German collaboration. The accurate Kooscha warms up the sensorics with elegant dance manipulations and a distinct rhythm, and the related association Echoton traditionally introduces a tart concentrate of meaningful thoughts. The rich aftertaste of variable electronic abstractions takes the subconscious and musical outlook to a different plane. Now you are more than an observer

After a long time in the works we are happy to announce it's finally here. On the A side we have a the title track, a fast and dark specimen with a rumbling kick, loopy synths and dirty sounds. Track 2 is a more melancholic/melodic piece that will hopefully take you on a trip. The B side is where it gets rowdy! Codex is a high energy track with pounding drums, sequenced synths and trippy melodies & we're more than happy that Farrago decided to remix this track. He took it a step further and made the drums pop, added some acidic psy elements and a break that will make the people shake! We hope you enjoy this EP! Masters: Joe Farr Mastering. Infernal Sounds welcome back the heavyweight Von D, as he delivers the gargantuan three-track Hunedoara EP, fresh off the back of his debut release on Deep Medi. Spanning way back to 004 on the label in which he made his debut on Infernal Sounds with two tracks 'Cross Of Hendaye' & 'Finis Glorae Mundi', he drives a different style and reflection on this endeavour. The title-track 'Hunedoara' is the crowd pleaser - hitting you with the heavyweight stomping war chant, whereas both 'Akasha' and the textural 'Layers' on the B-side are melody centered and display the more playful side to the French producers repertoire. Having already received the backing from the likes of Truth, DJ Squarewave, and many other reputable artists in the scene, this is a plate that's armed for the dance or for playing at home

Tracks that needed specific vocals and also rare instruments such as harp, fujara, tambourine have been produced in collaboration with Olena Nevertii and Yaroslav. The artist has sampled himself while throat singing along with field recordings in natural surroundings. There's a message behind the carefully made-by-hand fantasy aesthetics of the production and its unconventional voice. A1 > nothing stops detroit	Techno pioneer Robert Hood debuts on Rekids with a blistering release entitled 'Nothing Stops Detroit' ahead of an album this winter. Over the last three decades the Underground Resistance alum has continually been at the forefront of the techno genre whilst releasing on many of electronic music's finest labels to boot. In recent years his solo outings have appeared on a select few labels such as Dekmantel, Music Man Records, not to mention his very own M-Plant. Having made appearances on Rekids in the past remixing label boss Radio Slave - both as Robert Hood ('Don't Stop No Sleep') and Floorplan ('Feel The Same') - the Detroit originator now drops a four track release in his official debut on the label. With its machine aesthetic, 'Nothing Stops Detroit' is unmistakably Hood from start to finish. Precision kick drums propel the title track forward as stuttering effects and deep stabs work alongside a march band rhythm. '7 Mile Dog' is next with its grainy synths and scintillating pads, making way for the meandering bassline, rattling atmospheric and trippy, oscillating top line of 'Ignite A War'

A1 > mousewalk "Christian Burkhardt & Daniel Roth"	Saturn Drive's debut EP 'Mousewalk' featuring Frankfurt's favorite, Christian Burkhardt with long time collaborator, Daniel Roth; along with a bumping remix by Politics of Dancing. 'Mousewalk' EP is comprised of 4 track: title track 'Mousewalk' has the signature micro tech-house sound that put Christian Burkhardt on the map; Driving bassline, rolling percussion, and a dose of funk. Politics of Dancing's remix of the track maintains the essence of the original while offering a deeper, housier interpretation. 'E-Search' is the banger of the bunch, heavy low end and techy ambient make this a dancefloor hitter. Final track, 'Sling', is an introspective minimal tech track that explores the trippier, darker side of Burkhardt's sound. Early Support from: Sascha Dive, Roy Okpara, D'Julz, Cab Drivers, Mihai Popoviciu, Prunk, Richard Ahmed, Dan Drastic, Lauhaus

In his sound, he constantly tries to discover new facets of techno, filling it with his personality. In just a year, he has released three releases, including the "Matrix Computer Poetry" EP on the German Twig, "A Man's Hurt" EP on the Lumbago from Lyon and "P" on the British Cartulis Music. Komponente and Kurilo were preparing their debut live and were in search of a new sound, so the record has absorbed many elements from different genres. A and B sides are completely different, but they are one in the atmospheric flow. Each track has its own idea and purpose for the dance floor, it's up to you to choose. The artwork for the release was created by the designer Dima Phase. Limited vinyl only 200 copies

The A1 track: "Behavior", has immediately reached a great success in clubs, as reported by the European House charts of the time. The project has continued for two more productions with UMM, to then change label and go on with D: Vision, until 1996, year of publication of the last production, volume 6. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A1 > chaos A2 > the immortal B1 > chaos "Worg rmx" B2 > the immortal "Psyk rmx" 	In ancient Rome, Consuls held two strategic roles: exercising authority over all the public affairs of the city and accompanying the legions in their military campaigns. Lykos Records gave this role to Artist Laertes, born Gianluca Meloni. Ambassador of the sound of Rome, Laertes has been one of the pioneers of the deep-techno genre. After establishing in Italy as producer, live performer and mastering engineer, he exported his aesthetics all around the world. "Titanomachia" is the title of Laertes' new work inspired by Hesiod's Theogony. The artist tells through aggressive and groovy sounds one of the bloodiest wars in Greek mythology, Zeus leading the Olympian gods versus Chronos and the Titans. "Chaos" throws us into the swirl of battle. The repetitive sound of the synth bass sequence alludes to the sound of spears broken on shields, while pads and strings charge the entire track with tension. The narration continues in a daring succession of loops and hypnotic rhythms, with the second track "The Immortal". Strident bleeps and incessant percussions and rhythmic patterns characterize the progressive crescendo

The album has a narrative identity that evokes the film without images. It translates orchestral film music from the 60s into a contemporary electronic soundtrack, capturing the enchanting influences of composers like Bernard Herrman and Henry Mancini by using analog synthesizers to emulate traditional orchestration techniques. For this release, all the music composed for the film has been rearranged to form a full length album with influences from jazz, classical, ambient, wave, hip hop and modern electronica that harks back to the sound of the 80s and 90s. Beau Zwart is a young upcoming film composer, DJ and producer from Rotterdam. Both in his more club related work and scores, Beau transforms his classical background to make complex music accessible and crosses borders between genres. This release is the first installment of Narrative Identity Records, a Rotterdam based label that focuses on soundtracks and narratively driven music. The label is collaboration between filmmaker Vincent Boy Kars and composer Beau Zwart with the goal to connect and innovate the worlds of music and film

Working through all the manifestations of reggae from Ska to Roots and Dub, where his ground breaking 1973 'Blackboard Jungle' LP, set the standards, he was an innovator. If this was not enough his recordings of THE WALERS, many believe to be their finest work. Born Rainford Hugh Perry, 28 March 1936, Hanover, Jamaica. He began his career at the grand age of 16, working for Clement 'Coxone' Dodd's sound system, rising quickly to the position of record scout and organising recording sessions during his 3 year period 1963-1966. Restlessness and unsatisfied with credit he felt due to him he moved on to work with Producers J.J. Johnson and Clancy Eccles, the later of which would help him set up his 'Upsetter' label in 1968, which would see his first of many recordings telling the injustices done to him by previous employees. 'The Upsetter' track itself pointed at Mr Dodd but reflected back to Perry when he inherited it as a nick name along side many others during the course of his career, including 'Scratch', again taken from one of his recordings 'Chicken Scratch' recorded in 1965/1966. Perry's work in 1968 with producer Joe Gibbs was fruitful and resulted in many successful releases, but again lack of credit and itchy feet, it was time to move on

Hailing from Kyushu, Japan from the early 80's CONFUSE is synonymous with Japanese Hardcore across the world. Inventors of the 'raw punk' approach, an hyper-distorted version of the classic '82-bit punk formula, they ended influencing a whole plethora of latter European hardcore bands like Extreme Noise Terror or Doom, and the whole 90's ".crust" scene. This discography LP features tracks from the "Nuclear Addicts" 7" from 1984, the "Contempt The Authority And Take Off The Lie" 7" from 1985, the "Spending Loud Night" 7" recorded in 1983, their tracks from the "Sexual Confuse" compilation released in 1985, and the "Stupid Life" 12" from 1989, where they evolved into a more melodic, 70's rock inspired style of music, right before disbanding and mysteriously disappear

Born in Cuba in 1927 but raised in Jamaica, Laurel Aitken played an important role in the growth of the 'Menf' music (indigenous Jamaican folk-based music, blending elements of European melody and African rhythm) phenomenon, while the Jamaican music industry was taking its first, hesitant steps back in 1958. Including such classics as the ray/O-/influenced 'Mass Charlie' or the pivotal 'Calypso Rock - Roll', this is a must-have for anyone willing to know more on the origins of Rocksteady and Ska

The musician, graphic wizard and all around good guy from Krakow carved four raw and gloomy soul anthems out of his machines to create a record that features a wide range of music which is still connected by a common feeling. AUTOSTRADA isn't just a hard-rocking Electro track in its own right but also an aural reminiscence to the long but fun hours Chino spent on Autobahnen or Autostradas to drive to gigs, for instance at Uncanny Valley's home base Dresden. With DYSCYPLINA, he turns to a wave/EBM approach. The result is a track that encourages anything but disciplined behaviour on the dance floor. CARABO CRUISE on the other hand is his take on Italo anthems, but with a special Chino-touch that is impossible to resist. Think of sunrises in industrial areas. Finally, we got ALWERNIA which is heavily inspired by dark sci-fi movies. If Tarkowski met a bunch of 24-Hour-Party-Robots, this could be the soundtrack

A1 > hurt feelings	Daniel Maunick returns with a new EP, Musica Encantada via Far Out Recordings. Continuing the theme of his debut album Macumba Quebrada – which saw support from the likes of Moodymann, Ron Trent, Gilles Peterson, and Benji B – Maunick draws on the deep-rooted Brazilian influences from the many years he has spent in the country, producing records with Azymuth, Marcos Valle, Sabrina Malheiros and Ivan 'Mamão' Conti. The bossa-jazz house smash 'Black Magic' stays exclusive to the vinyl, while the percussive deep-house roller 'A Chance To See Again', the tight and groovy 'Hurt Feelings', and the slow-mo Brazilian Balearic 'Africana' will all see a limited vinyl on the 23rd October 2020

A1 > osera	What does a contemporary album mean to us? Marc Pinal and Hugo Capablanca asked themselves this question when faced with the challenge of recording their first C.P.I. LP. To find the answer they went back to some of the most important records in their lives and listened to them from start to finish. At a time when the whole concept of an album might be at its lowest ebb for decades, they wanted to return to the old way of telling stories, recreating the notion of a narrative "journey" but doing so in their own original manner. 'Alianza' displays a wide range of emotions through only a few elements. There are no structures, barely any drums. It's a puzzling journey that moves through darkness and light, happiness and despair, hope and menace, as it unveils its own mysterious universe. Every track is a world in its own, yet all of them are linked by an invisible energy that reflects a coherent constellation. To achieve this, Hugo and Marc used a broad array of vocal timbres, including their own drone-treated voices, digitized vocals from an old vector synth, and those of several contributors

A1 > unconditional contours memorymoog	'Unconditional Contours' captures Legowelt's stint at the Swiss Museum for Electronic Music Instruments (SMEM), after he was invited to be the first artist in residence at the institution's "Playroom" project. Legowelt visited SMEM in Fribourg, Switzerland, in early 2019 to explore the collection and record music. Possessing an extensive collection of synthesizers himself, he used hand-picked synthesizers from the museum's archive: the rare Farfisa Synthorchestra, the EVS-1 Evolution, the "shittiest rompler ever made", amongst many others. The 10-track album "Unconditional Contours" is both a probe into the vast collection of SMEM, and a display of Legowelt's well established compositional qualities. Leaving ample space for new sounds to unfold, Legowelt invokes gentle trips, brooding excursions, bleep heavy soundscapes, and reimagined elements of dance music classicism. SMEM and -OUS are launching the "smem+ous" series to document the "Playroom" residencies. A limited edition of this album was already sent out to early supporters of the "Playroom". Founded in 2016 and based on a collection of more than 5000 synthesizers, organs, drum machines and effects that had been collected over a 35 year period by Klemens Niklaus Trenkle, SMEM offers residencies, studio sessions, talks and workshops
