A1 > close your eyes E-Dward!	Introspection Recordings invites into their already alluring world of deep and stripped back house for a second look, this time with a four track VA release featuring E-dward!, Mennie, Lorenzo Magnozzi and BCFHBH. Close Your Eyes from E-dward is a superbly smooth and seductive deep house track with supple drums overlaid with lush, puddle-like pads that are filled with warmth and colour. Mennie picks up the pace with the twisted synths and molten acid gurgles of Haumea, which is a driest but delicious house cut for the heads. Lorenzo Magnozzi opens up the flip-side with a more peak time track thanks to its edgy stabs and militant hi hat and drum combo. This one is filled with astral drama and sci-fi tension of the highest order. BCFHBH closes out this standout EP with Nur Mix, a freaky minimal groove for the after party that will burrow deep into your brain synapses

A1 > love manifesto	Love Manifesto, our 3rd vinyl only release, is Robert David's artistic expression, and an introspection in the meaning of Love. What is love in all it's forms, how we accept or deny it, how society can change the meaning of it and deform it. This is a very special project in which the artist crossed over the realms of sound by creating a painting that was done in paralel with the original tracks, absolutely with no intention of becoming the cover of the project. But somehow it fitted perfectly. With the Minimal and the Romanian sound being at the root of the project, the 2 remixes from Argenis Brito and Macarie, complete the picture and the trip in which we invite you to dive in and hopefully enjoy the "madness" of it, as we did. Peace and Love. Unfelde Records

A1 > straight ahead	Abbey Lincoln, often remembered for her seminal work with Max Roach, was a powerful performer and indeed one of the greatest Jazz voices of all time. 'Straight Ahead' stands as one her best albums. Lincoln is matched here by a ultra-stellar line up including Jazz masters such as Booker Little - trumpet, Julian Priestler - trombone Eric Dolphy - alto saxophone, bass clarinet, flute, Walter Benton and Coleman Hawkins - tenor saxophone, Mal Waldron - piano, Art Davis - bass, Max Roach - drums, Roger Sanders and Robert Whitley - congas. 'Straight Ahead' is the perfect combination between Lincoln's strong 'Afro-Blue' tone singing, conscious lyrics and angular modern Jazz arrangements. Recorded in New York in a one-off studio session held on February 22, 1961 and released by Candid Records in the same year, the album includes highlights such as Oscar Brown jr's 'When Malindy Sings', Thelonious Monk's 'Blue Monk', Billie Holiday and Mal Waldron's 'Left Alone' and 'African Lady' a Randy Weston composition based on lyrics by the great writer Langston Hughes

The Jerusalem-born, Tel Aviv-based producer Roy Rosenfeld has a reputation as one of the last true leaders of the authentic club culture and this release proves that his talents stretch even way beyond that. With a mind as distinctive as his soul, though, Rosenfeld puts that nostalgic structure in a globetrotting artistic framework which makes everything both familiar and innovative. His creative ability to respond to the context according to the circumstances is impeccable. Accordingly high are the expectations of a producer of his caliber, but those expectations are more than met by the groundbreaking opus found on this 40-minute material. The title track floats on a cool Middle Eastern ambience with a sophisticated late night theme exposing those seductive traces of piano wandering, while the sequencing throughout the album is handled perfectly. One might think a genre only has so much potential to be taken to new places, but Roy doesn't feel that way. This unique release includes two guest artists - Guy J and Eli Nissan, making this new release even more special

On this full-length debut, Deseos Primitivos tear through 12 tracks of powerful and aggressive punk rock that brings to mind first generation LA punk and early '80s hardcore while still coming across as fully contemporary. This my kind of old school punk. It rips hard, but it's got a touch of melody as well. It's got hard-hitting guitars, a blistering rhythm section, and really strong lead vocals. The lyrics, sung in Spanish, address themes such as 'revenge, homelessness and gentrification, colonization, and sensual tales of taboo dreams'. This band is not fooling around. With passion and fury, they create music that speaks to their reality. If you enjoy fist/pumping, sing-along punk rock anthems, this record is full of 'em!

A través de diferentes registros -vibrante rock'n'roll a la Flamin' Groovies/Rolling Stones, potente rock de alto voltaje de herencia Detroit, medios tiempos cargados de tensión, dolor y rabia, powerpop agri dulce- la banda confecciona un magnífico puzzle sonoro en que las distintas piezas vienen unidas por una temática común (las heridas causadas por una separación amorosa). Producido por Kent Steedman. A la edición original se añadieron 5 bonus tracks, casi 70 minutos del mejor rock australiano

British funk & disco band The Chequers began in reggae, formed by bassist John Matthias and his guitarist brother Richard in 1973, with drummer George Young, keyboardist Paul War and vocalist Jackie Robins. Despite the success of early single "Rudie's In Love," the group soon aimed for a broader sound informed by lush disco and Philly soul, thus, debut LP Check It Out had Mike Spear on congas, Andy Dummit on sax and flute and Ken Freeman on string synth. Tracks like "Theme One" and "Rock On Brother" are heavily orchestrated, and there's an unusual funk & disco reading of The Wailers' "Get Up Stand Up" too

Legowelt teams up with medieval music expert Jimi Helinga once again for a new album in their 'para-academic' Zandvoort & Uilenbal project. Folk Triumfator is the successor to the cult 2016 GERUIS UIT SOMBERDORP in which they return to appropriate historical instruments and mix it with 'modern' synthesizers. We can hear a medieval Hurdy Gurdy, A Victorian Harmonium, a 1950's Mixtur Trautonium, an electro acoustic thumb harp and much more, all mingled and amalgated into the unique Zandvoort & Uilenbal sound. It all crackles and squeaks like an old haunted ship drifting into a foggy sinister harbour while being observed by Ligottian clown puppets. We can write how conceptual and arty this all is but let's just say this is hardcore dark ambient with lots of medieval drone space jazz influences to trip your mind out into a region where time and your opinions cease to exist

The Atacama Large Millimeter / submillimeter Array (ALMA), is the largest astronomical project in the world. It is a revolutionary interferometer that comprises a set of 66 antennas (also called antennas: reflectors or radio telescopes when it is a single antenna) of seven and twelve meters in diameter, designed to observe millimeter and sub-millimeter wavelengths. The project was built on the Chajnantor plain, at an altitude of 5058.7 meters, in the Atacama desert in northern Chile. ALMA Sounds is an initiative that seeks to interpret and decode the frequencies of the Universe transforming them into sounds, so that filmmakers from all over the world can compose, share and create a community united by a search that has captivated humans for thousands of years. Arido Records presents the first Various Artists on the plate, a material that will feature leading producers from Latin America and who agreed to transform the sounds captured into music, which will be forwarded and merged with the cosmos

A true hot stepper and one of the best of its kind, this 1984 masterpiece from Ini Kamoze is heavy, real and authentic. It was actually Jamaican born artist Cecil Campbell's debut album and features spacious, slow motion dubs that invite you deep within their cavernous drums. The chattering percussion, echoing hits and loose percussion all make a real mark. "World-A-Music" has a beat fans of Damien Marley will recognise, and "General" features some of Campbell's more vulnerable vocal work. For fans old and new, this is a perfect roots album with a unique perspective

Silky and smooth like a fox, Crihan makes his way through on Catren's third release with "Fabulistul". Eerily creeping through, "Fuse si se duse" tells a tale of fleeting forest creatures roaming at night with a classical percussion driven tool that hits just the rights spots for warming up the dancefloor with bouts of shy melodies and a beautifully constructed drum track. Sweet and simple, just like we like it. On the flip side, "Corbul si vulpea" moves things further into groovier waters with a bassline that pulls you deep into the track's inner workings with delayed dub stabs, haunting melodies and chilling vocals coming in from the woodwork

Deformer has put out some groundbreaking records. Raw, obscure, bass and blood-drenched and with consistent quality, 2017's "Bukkakecore" is definitely one of them. Originally made as a tribute to Deformer's Japanese fans, this record was a big underground hit and even kickstarted a new sub-genre of the same name. Now, brace yourself for "Bukkakecore [remixed]", a full length release containing the original tracks, previously unreleased tracks and remixes by top notch Japanese artists! Japanese Hardcore heroes like Myosuke, Technorch, RedOgre, DJ Sharpnel and many others all gave their twisted interpretation to already twisted tracks to begin with. Also turntable magician DJ Ken-one laid down some vicious cuts. Again famous manga artist Shintaro Kago took care of the cover art, which is considered too extreme for social media, but obviously fits the music perfectly. Bukkakecore [remixed] is unique as well as a release for people that need to let off some steam

The raves of Same Bitches have not changed much since back in March 2014 at OHM, Berlin. Every second month on the first Saturday at noon sharp the residents Handmade, Ron Wilson, Derek Plaslaiko, VCO and Manuela Mayoral play each a three hour set and after everyone is through the Dj who warmed up goes into the next round continuing the running order with the usual ending in a full on back-to-back orgy. The occasional special guest never gets announced, it is mainly the same bitches in charge. Inspired by the raw sound of Detroit Techno, the crew have quickly gained underground praise over the years for their liberal queer atmosphere and no compromise after-hour excessive "last raver standing" attitude. Running at least 24 hours up until even 36 hours the raves have no dull moments bringing everyone into euphoria and exhaustion. Hard bouncy house and groovy techno with a lot of acid drive the dancers through the day and night... and day. After seven years it has come to the point of expanding the realm and the crew decided on releasing a record.

The first Electronic Emergencies release of 2021 is by Chris & Nogi, founders of the legendary Shoc Corridor. It reflects our love for minimal wave, simply called new wave back in the days. Released as a 10-inch, 'Autumn Rituals and Refugees' consists of eight tracks taken from 4-track-cassette tapes recorded in 1985-1988. Three of these are collaborations with avant-garde voice artist Sharon Gal. The original tapes, which had to endure a journey from London via Israel to South Africa, were beautifully restored by Ruud Lexx, who was able to retain the original sound and atmosphere. The cover art of 'Autumn Rituals and Refugees' was designed by Niels Vrijdag, exhibiting the DIY-mentality and modern living-fantasy of the music from the eighties

Exhausted Modern builds on his artistic journey with the release of the Year of the Rat remixes EP, a collective reinterpretation that takes the murky, hidden depths of the album to new rhythmic dimensions. Philipp Otterbach starts off the A-side with a spellbinding composition for the thoughtful, dissolving Pineal Gland into an ethereal cluster of solemn melodies and vocals. Annechoic's take on Apathy Eats You Alive delves into the melodic side of the track, polishing it for the dance floor. Popertelli draws out T-Maze from dark introspection to beats that waver between a glitch and a heartbeat, with the feeling of having been resuscitated. The B-Side sees Ayaz putting words to a 180-degree spin on Food of the Gods with hallucinogenic dynamism: a grimy tale of facing the unavoidable. Finally, NVST returns with her Hive mix of Hard Working Rats, oscillating between heavy and melancholic with soul-permeating resonance

A1 > floppy computer	Floppy Computer' is the newest set of future-gazing grooves from Periodica Records and label partner Raffaele "Whodamanny" Arcella rescuing and restoring forgotten tape compositions from a legendary Italian pop producer using the pseudonym Nico Mecca. Produced during the years 1979-1985 using cutting edge home recording techniques and the latest synthesizer. The productions across the works are incredibly forward-thinking for that time with inspirations and track titles referring to hypermodern tech and a proto-cyberpunk soundworld and progressive rock and experimental electronic music that features novel combinations of mediterranean boogie, robotic funk, sci-fi balearic, hypnagogic pop and astrofrital jazz. The discovery of the 'Floppy Computer' project is dictated by destiny and a strong cosmic interference as not only were these tracks produced by Mecca during his 30s, they were discovered 30 years later by Raffaele Whodamanny, who is also in his 30s-- facts that give the project a mystical and numerological significance, since this number and age represent a divine midpoint between youthful enthusiasm and the wisdom of experience. Amazing record with both historical as creative value! Recommended

A1 > intro	Boom! The third one in a very special series of shape picture discs on SOM. After the collaboration with Gerald Donald and Egyptian Lover on the last 2 volumes this time The Exaltics invites the one and only Helena Hauff. A1 starts with a short eerie intro and after that they come straight to the point with an UFO electro techno stomper with vocals from Helena. The flip side is floating around with alot of echoes and delays melodies and 303s, Helenas beautiful voice and this special old school feeling. Again the artwork is done by the amazing Godspill aka Mehdi Rouchiche. Every record comes with a download code. The outer contour of the picture is also the contour of the record and makes this release once again to a high collectable item.. Please Note!!! This is a picture shape disc and the sound quality and also the deformation itself is not as good as on a regular standard vinyl! This is a concept collector's item! Pablo Rita rmx* B2 > moons of gaza	The latest installment in the Crosstown Rebels release schedule sees Circus club resident James Organ make a standout debut on the label. Titled Secrets, the EP welcomes Spanish mainstay Dennis Cruz as remixer of the lead track. "It was a real moment for me when Damian picked the EP up and signed it almost straight away. It's been a very exciting time, and I'm incredibly proud to be releasing this record as my final EP of the year." James Organ. The original of Secrets Feat. Pablo:Rita leads the charge, as dubby, minimal-faced melodies reside atop an infectious lead bassline, with Pablo:Rita's soothing vocals completing the enchanting nature of the track. Dennis Cruz's remix swiftly arrives and brings with it a darker flavour, as thick kicks converge on spacious hats to form a stripped-back, late-night club cut, before the mind-bending sounds of Moons Of Gaza rounds things off with a subtle acid-tinged backbone and warming key changes.

'Mosaik' has been talked about for almost 2 years and in Autumn 2010 Moritz Friedrich aka Siriusmo has finally found the time and courage to sit down and complete the project. It's about time? An artist who has been around for about a decade, released a dozen Singles and EPs on various Berlin based record labels and remixed names like Scissor Sisters, Gossip, Chikinki, Simian Mobile Disco, Boys Noize, Digitalism, Chromeo, A-Trak, Munk and many others should finally release his debut album you say? We agree! Siriusmo, who grew up with Stevie Wonder, The Beatles and Hip Hop, played organ in a 70s inspired Band, is active as a graffiti artist, ghost-painter and illustrator. "Mosaik" reflects all the different aspects of his personality and strongly shows his interest in various art forms and various kinds of music. For Moritz the sound of Siriusmo should be futuristic. Not like our current understanding of the future, more like the future was painted in the 70s: exaggerated, improvisational, colourful, sometimes trashy, but never cheap, extravagant and open minded. 'Mosaik' features a good hour of music on vinyl including 4 exclusive bonus tracks

The music of Aethers Spring will manifest through three distinct personas, each with their own distinguishing sounds, styles and narratives. In this sense Aethers Spring is a Gesamtkunstwerk making use of multiple art forms to augment and enhance its musical output via visual and written work. Aether's Spring begins with "WATER: Dancing Moon". A hypnotic and oneiric EP of electronica, it sits strikingly between heady nighttime listening and the converse territories of functional dance-floor music. Some kind of dream. Some kind of dance. Its story is told via the artwork of Frederick E. Woodward and Denis Chapon

'Take It Easy' comes packed with four stellar selections; two original works from the German, as well as two remixes from Clement Kassianov and Pattern Drama. The title track eases you into this one, with filtered kicks paving the way for poetic vocals and melodies that climb upwards in energy and a stature. Clement Kassianov then offers his interpretation, bringing together tribal percussion that work effortlessly alongside the hook of "Take It Easy", coming and going across the duration. Over to the B Side and Aquarius is back on the original works with 'Backstage of the Backstage' - a faster paced and darker cut with haunting synth pads that open the room for an equally eerie muffled vocal. Pattern Drama then builds upon the rich layer of chords created by Aquarius Heaven with the addition of crisp percussive hits and the return of twinkling melodies overhead

It's an online collaboration of Alexandre Kordzaia (kordz) and Natalie Beridze. These two came up with the concept of the record uneventfully, after recording their first track "Celebrity clouds". Beridze's lyrics came out completely irrelevant to Kordz's music, that adopted a flair of humor and sarcasm to it. After that, they decided to stick the line of weird lyrics on top of synth, piano and ambiance recordings, played live by kordz. Musical ideas belong to kordz. Beridze would complete the tracks, adding few instruments (or none, in some cases), wrote lyrics and recorded vocals. The artwork of the vinyl, made by Georgian artist Thea Djordjadze, resembles the concept of the music nonetheless. As though having nothing to do with neither celebrities, nor their clouds, it shows the sadness and the beauty of half-molten candle. Alexandre Kordzaia aka kordz is a Georgian composer. After moving to Switzerland at a young age, he professionally studied piano and drums, audio design and recording acoustic music. shortly after he started producing electronic music

They continue on the paths they defined on their first release "Drum & Trails", producing genre-defying club music that contains hypnotic rhythms and flirts with the electroacoustic. The second release, "IDE002", has a more refined and developed sonic signature that is instantly recognizable. Mixing analog percussion and found sounds, the record meanders through ambient terrains that agitate the body into movement with precise rhythmic punctures and interjections. The result is a live recorded album both for ears, feet and mind. IDE002 is a playful record with witty turns. Every track contains pulsing rhythms coming from Valdernes' homemade percussion instruments and drum machines together with luring, curious sounds from Huizing's field recordings, mixed with samples of her electric violin and voice. The record shows that these artists are serious about their aim to make layered club music that does not want to make you forget but aims to remind you of curious, interesting places and pushes you to really listen to them
