A1 > when summer comes B1 > acid bounce B2 > transmission x	Alleivated Records is proud to present a remastered re-issue of the second installment of the "LooseFingers" EP series. This EP, produced by Larry Heard contains 3 selections; on the A Side: "When Summer Comes" [If you enjoyed tunes like "What About This Love" [Mr. Fingers], you'll like this great dance-song with a summer feel that should provide a great musical backdrop to any summer event]. On the B side "Acid-Bounce" [an acid-track.. which should be a surprise to many since Larry has not really done a lot of "tracky" things in recent years]. It should be fun for DJ's to get creative with too! "Transmission X" [is another acid-style track that DJ's and dancers alike will probably enjoy!!!!]. DONT MISS IT!!!

Its a double EP using the microtonal tuning method known as Colundi ? with which his work is now synonymous - he guides us through a ritualistic journey of ten formidable tracks. Glistening scales cascade over peculiar tones. Aleksi Perala explores the powers of an alternative tuning system in dance-floor structures, tapping into the veiled potential of his sound palette with stunning physical consequences. Saccharine and mysterious, ?Paradox? channels elements of Electro, Techno and Italo, ultimately achieving a transcendental form of its own

 REPRESS  Recorded in 1959 at the height of the Latin Jazz Era, This is Mongo Santamaria's second album for Fantasy Records. A deep and fascinating investigation of Afro-Cuban roots run by the great percussionist and a quite large group featuring Paul Horn on flute, Emil Richards on vibraphone, Al McKibbons on bass and of course lots of multicolored percussion and vocals split by a bunch of masters players including Armando Peraza and Willie Bobo. The album opens with the redolent melody of "Afro-Blue" one of his most beautiful compositions which later became a classic Jazz standards with historical renditions by the likes of John Coltrane, Abbey Lincoln and Oscar Brown Jr

Featuring the compelling sounds of Chivru, Hippex (Hipp and Alex Ungureanu), Kiwa & Sonohat, KONTENT showcases the depth of talent on offer in Romania's underground circles. Opening with the dulcet tones of Chivru's 'Heyday Of Youth', the Ep traverses an eclectic and altogether groovy sonic aesthetic. Continuing with the sexy, baseline laden 'Drowning By The Light' by Hippex things escalate as we soar onwards and into Kivva's dreamy cut '1st Century, landing firmly in the grip of Sonohat's gritty, melancholic cut 'Modelar. Another firm and fitting statement for KONTENT, as the label proves the talent isn't just at the top

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A1 > beyond the portal A2 > ready for landing B1 > a new land C1 > searching the area C2 > knowing eachother D1 > we'll live together 	A name already known within the Romanian minimal lovers; Sepp is visiting Praetorium imprint for an adventure in time and space under Seppsilvestri alias. The Searching LP follows Cihan's opening album discussed earlier this year. His latest album has been announced on Praetorium, making it the second outing for the conceptual label. As he spreads the LP over 6 tracks, a clear deviation from a familiar Sepp sound can be discerned as early as Beyond the Portal. He transcends an outer space exploration by the use of alienated sound patterns with every piece being another part of the expedition itself. As the traveler crosses Beyond The Portal and gets Ready For Landing, A New Land is found, and one can start Searching The Area. A new life form is being found and they start Knowing Eachother, concluding to We'll Live Together. Not only this album is filled with atmospheric layers, but it also takes one's mind at ease of traveling in his own chair. Praetorium is delivering stories to your ear-step and by doing so, a whole new gradient of sound can be contemplated while Sepp leaves no room for hesitation

A1 > exploring the north	2021 black vinyl repress - Atmospheric Vol 2 is the second single to be taken from Deepchord's latest full length but sees him stray from the album tracks, bringing 3 exclusive pieces to the vinyl, keeping in the same musical vein as Ultraviolet Music. Exploring the North & Pinewood Lodge see Rod Modell on more Deep Techno excursions as beautifully sweeping pads and glistening synths drift by ever evolving, perfectly processed atmospheres. Deepchord's unique use of subtle field recordings throughout give both of these tracks a real heady/druggy quality and his seamless loops allow you to drift of into his fully developed dream world. Shot Point delves into straight up ambient territory with Deepchord striking an unearthly balance between the natural and synthetic world. Yet more flawlessly collected field recordings wash away on an ocean of reverb soaked pads, drowning the listener within its mesmerising tides

A1 > perfumes of a spring mist
A2 > xpan
B1 > campfire

2021 repress - The incomparable Deepchord is back on Soma and drops the first single from forthcoming album, Auratones due in October. As is expected from the Detroit based sound designer, the Campfire EP is everything we have come to know and admire about his productions; from the spaced out, ambient sound fields to classic Dub Techno. Perfumes Of A Spring Mist delicately opens this latest EP with entrancing, processed soundscapes, beautifully haunting melody and simple rhythmic elements that seem to evolve naturally allowing you to get lost in the sea of vibrations. Xpan leans on the more classic Dub Techno sound from Deepchord of years passed. Sub heavy beats and jagged yet tranquil synths sweep across the palette as Deepchord plays with constantly fluctuating chords, bringing the quintessential 90s Deep Techno into his more modern, processed sound. Title track Campfire brings ambience to the forefront to close out the EP. Melancholic synth elements drift across an expanse of refined and uniquely crafted field recordings, offering an insight into the areas from which Deepchord draws his inspiration. Once again Deepchord proves to be one of the most visionary artists the electronic world has seen

The entirety of Necrofago's recorded legacy is encapsulated in their activities during the years 1987 and 1988 with the most important piece being their 1987 demo entitled "Brutal Mutilation". One of the most unique sounding recordings to have come from the Brazilian scene, "Brutal Mutilation" exemplifies, unlike any other recording, the emphasis those bands placed upon harsh aggression and raw recording techniques. The demo sounds like the result of the potent collision of immense quantities cheap alcohol and inhalants in brains already awash in adrenaline and youthful testosterone. Lacking in nearly every category of technical proficiency, Necrofago focused their entire effort into creating a monument to savagery

R-release of the very first The Ex LP from 1980! Completely in the original version. With all artwork, posters, booklets and flyers. All on the 'different' The Ex record labels, DISTURBING DOMESTIC PEACE on 'Verrecords', the LIVE SKIVE 7" on 'Eh Records'. Released 40 years ago, but still up-to-date and exciting! This is prime stuff. It's primitive when compared with their current wide-ranging output, but even then they were embellishing their scratchy politico-punk with some interesting instrumental touches

After a period of spending time in nature living in the Spanish coastal town of Dexo - producer Roi speaks of his experience of returning to city life on his second EP for Fanzine Records on Crunia EP. Set to drop this summer, Roi shares two tightly honed original tracks inviting Carl Finlow and The Exaltics to remix. The EP is a counterpoint to Deixo EP - his 2019 EP on Fanzine that speaks from his opposite perspective of the self-knowledge born out of his isolation when he first moved to the coast out of the city. Crunia marks his time preparing the return to the jungle of the asphalt. It's a new chapter moving from an introverted to extroverted existence and between nature and man's constructs in the city. Opening the EP Maianca works in deep breakbeats with shimmering synths with a jumping and uplifting feel. Carl Finlow's remix builds it into an ultra-funky electro boogie number that perfectly speaks of the carefree existence of living in nature. Crunia takes the EP into a more frantic corner of urban life - to light up dark corners gritty warehouse dance floors. For their remix The Exaltics take's Roi's heavy handed lead and brings a heavily kicking version of Crunia to the mix ready to pump the city's sound systems

Titled 'Luminous Energy', this is a vinyl djs dream with a track to fit each part of a stylish dub techno set. Francisco Aguado starts us out on the smooth tip with the streamlined goodness that is 'Vertical Time'. Detroit Side label owner Giacomo Pellegrino brings us a gem of a dub vibe in 'Forget The Brain' that has just the right dose of house edge to make this wall-shaker and a dancefloor packer too! Side B has Dubonautik getting down with some serious funk with 'Lost'. This one is sure to raise some eyebrows along with moving your feet. 'Void Dub' lastly takes us to a groovy lounge afterparty with the epic Heavenchord as your host. Having this EP in your box is like having the best of 4 EPs on one vinyl! On remix duties is none other than Detroit veteran Mike Storm, who strips back "Error System" into an atmospheric roller for the twilight hours. All up, Unpatterns is a stand-out first transmission from the Berlin-based label, welcoming two artists fresh from album releases on Jeff Mills' Axis Records, and providing a platform for them to create something new

A1 > palette	Alberto Pascual, also known as Ribe is a well seasoned veteran in the Spanish scene. An expert synthesist and modular weirdo, his sound palette is amazing. If you have been so fortunate to enjoy his live PA before these turbulent times, you've got the precision and hypnosis he always provides. This release has a physical side and a digital one, with four and seven tracks respectively, including two Oscar Mulero remixes. "Palette" opens the release, a lone kick drum squashed in reverb sets the pace on the first bars while abstract details appear randomly and a continuous sequence grows from below. The tension is kept all over the arrangement, not additional percussive elements, just the few principal elements going back and forth. "Shapes" has a Basic Channel approach soundwise, texturized techno as its best, exploring the dark corners of sound design, and again all relaying on a linear and mental arrangement. "Ad Infitum" is remixed by Oscar Mulero in his first remake, transforming the formerly broken and abstract Ad Infitum into a danceable intelligent weapon. Original version of "Ad Infitum" follows, providing the experimental slice of the EP. Broken rhythms, shuffled components and low rated tempos

One of our favorite artists and part of our family almost since the beginning, came out with a new killer record. This time a new 100% instrumental album. You can call it surf music, instrumental rock, psychedelic, you name it. It's so original and carved with a tone of influences since the 50's to the now music, that is almost unclassifiable. This one have also a special flavor it's a true homage to one of the most important japanese guitar player and composer, Takeshi Terauchi. The sleeve was inspired in one of our favorite albums he did in the 70's with The Blue Jeans, Rashomon. For us, one of the best albums that we released all over the years. The LP come with a paper OBL. japaneses style and a limited 100 color ones were made

Brant Bjork's desert vibe meets the punk attitude of Nick Oliveri and creates an explosive mix and a particular branch of rock. The sound is mellow, but these are the same guys who created the legend of Kyuss, and the Desert-Stoner rock movement which is alive now more than ever. This album is a celebration of the sound of the Desert, driven by the spirit of these incredible musicians and artists. 7 original tracks for this incredible debut album which describes how to ride into the dusty roads of the Mojave Desert where it has all begun. Brant's vocals give a classic color to the hypnotic-bluesy riffing background. Recorded at The Rad Cabin, Joshua Tree, CA on October 12, 2020 by Yosef Sanborn this is going to be your 2021 summer soundtrack!!

Rata Negra return with "Una Vida Vulgar" their third and best album. A truly pop infused punk record with an incredible production. The album harks back to their previous work in Juanita Y Los Feos but with more pop elements and a bigger and better production. Each of the ten tracks are so good, that they could be released as a single. The Rhythm Section is locked in and the guitars buzz but it's the vocals that take this to pop heaven. The first side of the album starts with Venid A Ver and doesn't let up until the Phil Spector esque Cuando Me Muera. Flip over and it's straight back to the upbeat gems, which just keep coming until the final track Romance De Lobos which ends the album in a more reflective album. Una Vida Vulgar is pure perfection and for fans of X, Blondie and Rik Agnew

- B1 > kocmoc 108 "Anthony Rother"
- B2 > kocmoc 108 (space mix) "Anthony Rother"

Moscow's celebrated label System 108 presents the latest split release by Danny Daze and Anthony Rother. The "Binary" EP is inspired by and dedicated to Moscow and its rich and distinctive atmosphere. One side of the record consists of a raw-sounding and dancefloor-oriented techno track "Moscow" by Danny Daze. With a slight correspondence to the Dutch sound, the track also has a soulful synthesizer touch to it. During the process. Remixed by producers Etapp Kyle and Tarra. The second part of the EP belongs to the German electro producer and artist Anthony Rother with his track "Kocmoc", referencing the Soviet satellite launched in 1966, as part of the Dnepropetrovsk Sputnik program. The track is presented in two versions - the original mix being more dance-oriented, whilst the space mix is more abstract in its sound and style!

The EP comes on 140g purple vinyl and includes an interstellar team-up with Jensen Interceptor on the track Effe Bee Eye. The Truth is out there...

SHALL NOT FADE	BALTRA - DREAMING OF A DISCO EP	12.90 € 11.74 €
SNF061		12"
HOUSE	Release: 20 - August - 2021	GBR

- A1 > dreaming of a disco
- A2 > imaginary laughter
- B1 > private paradise
- B2 > sunset jam

Needing no introduction, NYC-based Baltra rose with the lo-fi house scene and has become one of the most innovative producers to come out of it, constantly pushing for a fresh sound with use of organic vocals and cross-genre experimentation. Returning for a full record on Shall Not Fade for the first time since the hazy sounds of Rendezvous EP in 2019, Baltra's Dreaming Of A Disco EP focuses on impeccable instrumentals and infectious melodies. The title track carries subtle manipulated vocalisations at the core of the melody which has a touch of romance and, later, just a hint of disco strings adding an 80s shimmer that explodes to the forefront in jangling guitar riffs. By the second number, "Imaginary Laughter", you know this record is party-ready - it is a slow build up of ecstasy, sugary sweet. Languid keys create a woozy atmosphere in "Private Paradise", a track which is a glittering and understated anthem. EP closer "Sunset Jam" holds more disco influence, channeling Donna Summer into a modern style with tight vocal percussion and 303 stabs for a genre-melting climax

A1 > grown weary of their kindness	"Just Valance being Valance, I'm no underground glitch legend or pioneer as I never cared for a title, just an individual who puts sounds together and embraces the outcome whether it's light or dark. Capturing emotions from complex patterns. I don't betray myself. Not for status. Not for power. Not for money. Not to fit into a stereotype. Not to look a certain way. Not for approval as patience and sacrifice is required to build anything. Some aspects of the world are getting uglier every day and every ray of hope is vital to tilt the balance." - Valance Drakes

Short Info: "This release marked a real shift in my production style in 1996, and was the start of a significant chapter in my recording career. Everything was handled independently from design to distribution to a subscription service to accompany it. Concept 1 was recorded in isolation at a time when I was not allowed to enter the USA and with everything going on in the world at this moment, it felt like the right time to finally release this project to a larger audience. Without the year of experimentation around the recording process of Concept 1 in 1995, I would never have gotten to the reduction that I was able to achieve later on the recording style of Plastikman 'Consumed'. In that way this is as an important album for me than any of my Plastikman albums

DB260		12"
BASS / BREAKS / GARAGE / LEFTFIELD	Release: 18 - June - 2021	USA
A1 > oh	A late night conversation about the past and future of dance music elicited this surprise left field collaboration from Justin Jay and Claude VonStroke. Justin's mission was simple: push VonStroke to the fringes. Being no stranger to disruption, Claude loved the idea of challenging creative expectations. The result is five intricate and leftfield landscapes, featuring a special remix from Pearson Sound. 'Oh' is an EP with influences from UK jungle, Detroit electro, Chicago juke and the deconstructed hip hop that shaped much of the early Dirtybird sound. The tracks differ radically but are strung together with a sense of excitement embedded in their polyrhythmic drum patterns and dynamic arrangement. 'Oh' is pressed on a simple whitelabel disc, shedding expectations and kicking off a new series of alternative genre records at a label that's always been about breaking the mold and not taking itself too seriously

The official soundtrack compilation release from Glitterbox and Defected Records first foree into Documnetary films : Where Love Lives. The film is a story of music's enduring power to manifest diverse and inclusive community, and the power of that community to accept and embrace, to liberate, even to save lives. It's a story of acceptance and creative expression – empowered, enabled and soundtracked by club music. Through extensive exclusive interviews with titans of nightlife culture, Where Love Lives contributors Billy Porter, Honey Dijon, Kathy Sledge, Kiddy Smile, Lucy Fizz, John 'Jellybean' Benitez, Kae Burke (House Of Yes), Fiorious and many more explore how those driven to the margins of society are welcomed unconditionally to the centre of the dancefloor

A1 > fingers A2 > slow B1 > wild style B2 > facteur	UK techno legend Mark Broom announces his 'Fast Fünfzig EP' for Radio Slave's Rekids this June, ahead of a full LP for the label in July. Mark Broom's mammoth discography shows an artist who has put in the hours, boasting appearances on legendary imprints such as Robert Hood's M-Plant, Warp Records, Pure Plastic, Bpitch Control, and of course Rekids. Alongside his solo work, his collaborations are an equal tour-de-force, with groups such as The Fear Ratio with James Ruskin counted as fan favourites. Here though, Broom takes the reigns solo, drawing on decades worth of experience for a 12" of mind-altering cuts for one of electronic music's most vital labels. Lead track 'Fingers' sees the British DJ/producer toying with rubbery basslines, glistening pads, and chunky percussion to deliver an irresistibly buoyant house track. 'Slow' follows suit, bringing another dose of deep low end next to eerie leads and shining synthesis. On the flip, Broom enters electro-fingert territory on 'Wild Style', tying unruly machines together with vocal chops over a staggered, off-kilter drum pattern. Taking the B2 spot, 'Facteur' sees a reflective touch to the EP as emotive progressions unfurl under robust, mechanical hits, providing a cohesive and captivating taste of the LP to follow in July

A1 > follow me (club mix) B1 > follow me (dub mix) B2 > follow me (instrumental mix)	Massive vocal driven Garage House pressure here, from way way back in 1992! Yes, 'Follow Me' is one of THOSE records, one that transcended genre boundaries on it's release and continues to do so today. A true classic piece of NYC goodness from back in the day. The super production team of DJ Pierre and George Morel could only deliver the heat and that's exactly what they did - created a timeless House record with the bassline that just doesn't let up! This is the sort of track that got hammered on the US House scene, found a home in the UK Garage world and got spin at almost any and all clubs where the DJ's had half a clue and an iota of taste! Containing the original 3 mixes released in '92 now's your chance to bag a bonafide, hands down classic record! 'Follow Me' has been skillfully remastered from all original master sources and fully licensed and reissued officially for 2017

A1 > reggietune A2 > get down B1 > ridelike the wind B2 > outerbound B3 > sos	Continuing to fly the flag for worldwide soulful dance-floor sounds, Jitwam's globe-hopping label The Jazz Diaries unveil their latest signing, Detroit-based veteran producer Brian 'Javonnite' Garrett. Supplying body moving frequencies since the late nineties, Javonnite began playing piano at age 15 and honed his craft on tour with Aretha Franklin. A collaborator of Amp Fiddler and Luke Solomon, he has previously released on labels such as Eglo Records, Lumberjacks In Hell, Traxx Underground, Defected and Waella's Choice. His debut on The Jazz Diaries sees Garrett turn in five hazy, funk-drenched, party-moving jams. From the crunchy midi fanfare of the record's opener "Reggietune", through to the blissed-out sweeping synths of "Outerbound", the EP packs a punch, keeping it's rock solid, groove-laden sensibilities throughout. Javonnite even throws in a jacked up, Detroit-style reinterpretation of Christopher Cross's classic track "Ride Like The Wind" (the EP's first single, due for release April 9th). Trust, this one won't leave your record bag

With Resistance Belgium based Derlich presents his severly stripped down to its essence technoid visions. In avoidance of any irrelevant superstructures RESISTANCE delivers 6 equally effective Tools ranging from ritual aesthetics with evolving rhythms and variations to unexpected heavy punches and deeply embeded obscurity reminiscent of the early Zhark releases. Derlich eradicates the lines in genres as industrial, Underground Techno and Dark Ambient Minimalism, heavy strokes clarifies the abstraction of modern life. His passion for art, derelict dark landscapes, and abandoned locations feeds the inspiration to work in his shadowy area of electronic music
