Significantly different to its sister release, this album collects the brilliantly chaotic and outrageously rhythmic material from the original sessions for the album that was begun as early as 1993 and had originally been conceptualised as the follow-up to "Love's Secret Domain". These songs are as diverse and wild as the places they originated from, partly infamously spawned in Sharon Tate's former home in the Hollywood Hills, the Nine Inch Nails home base in New Orleans and London's Swanyard, remixed and restructured with the help of long-term friend Danny Hyde in Thailand, this collection has its own unique flow and an atmosphere not found on any other COIL release. Both "AYOR" and "Backwards" had by the time the album was first released already become favourites in COIL's manic live performances. Some of the other tracks had only leaked in demo versions and are here presented updated and polished as Christopherson and Hyde intended them to be heard. It is interesting to consider Balance's vocal contributions, too. Whilst on the albums COIL did release at the time this material was first put aside ("Black Light District" and "ElpH") his voice is all but absent, his vocal performances and his lyric writing here are arguably more closely indebted to the previous "Love's Secret Domain" era, especially the epic "Copacaballa" is noteworthy in that respect. The New Backwards" effectively became the final official COIL studio release of all new material whilst Peter was still alive and is here presented for the first time fully supervised by Danny Hyde, its co-creator. The stunning cover uses a detail from artist Ian Johnstone's "Cubic Raven" painting, licensed from the estate of IJ.. It is high time to rediscover this timeless album with the Infinite Fog release boasting eight further tracks of previously unheard material from the same sessions, rough working stages and surprising remixes which will surely delight the dedicated COIL archaeologists, as they shine yet another light on the creative process and on what could have been. Recorded at Swanyard, London and at Nothing Studios, New Orleans, 1996. Thanks to everyone there, especially Trent Reznor who made it all possible. Written & Produced by Coil & Danny Hyde. Remixed by Peter Christopherson & Danny Hyde, Bangkok 2007. For that session Coil were: Peter Christopherson, Jhonn Balance & Drew McDowall. Mastered by Jessica Thompson. Front artwork by Ian Johnstone. Artwork licensed from The Estate of Ian Johnstone. Layout Cold Graves and Oleg Galay."

This one first came back in 2005 and is a go-to for fans as it is just a great example of the band's singular sonic world. The album was put together by Peter Christopherson a year after Jhonn Balance's deadly fall and it features re-workings of the live favourites like 'Amethyst Deceivers' and Love Secret's Domain album track 'Teenage Lightning' plus a num of tunes first meant for the ultimately ill-fated Backwards long player. 2019 sees Fat Wreck and BRACKET reunited at last with the release of their first new album together in nearly two decades! Too Old to Die Young is a return to form for the band, distilling the BRACKET sound stretching back to when "Zrak005" first hooked listeners in 1994. The album finds BRACKET still indulging their love for Beach Boys harmonies, but also taking a more straightforward songwriting approach. Self-recorded over the period of a couple years, Too Old to Die Young shows BRACKET at their most collaborative to date. Everything was written together, including the lyrics. The album wrestles with the themes implied by its title, including the wariness that comes from making music for such a long time. Fans will be eager to get their hands on this latest installment of BRACKET's uniquely classic barrage of harmonies, hook-laden choruses, and lyrical artistry

Canadas proudest pop-punk progenies CHIXDIGGIT! have had an enduring career pumping out some of the catchiest, fast paced, fun laden melodies ever written. With an unwavering dedication to their proven formula of cheeky lyrics and to-the-point music, CHIX have created a vast catalog of pop-punk classics over their more than 20 years as a band. While its true that a classic never dies, it never hurts to take it off the shelf and polish it up every once in a while. This is exactly what the band decided to do with their two definitive releases Born On the First of July and From Scene To Shining Scene. Both albums were originally released on Honest Dons (a former subsidiary of Fat Wreck Chords) to great acclaim, but never quite received all the attention that they deserved. LP reissues have both been remastered and now include bonus tracks as well and also include a digital version!

The long unavailable ninth album by Brazilian star Jorge Ben. Released in 1972, 'Ben' comes from one of Jorge Ben's most artistically important phases, the early 70s. The album has some of Ben's most famous songs, "Taj Mahal" (plagiarized by Rod Stewart on his song "Da Ya Think I'm Sexy?", as the British singer admitted himself in 2012), and "Fio Maravilha", paying homage to Flamengo's iconic football player Fio Maravilha

Geezer it's a rare band that finds its sound so engagingly, and with Stoned Blues Machine, the sixth Geezer LP, they once again build on their accomplishments, working with producer Chris Bittner at Applehead Recording in Woodstock, NY, to harness the band's most expansive production to date. A vivid and bombastic album, Stoned Blues Machine is Geezer's response to the last few tumultuous years. Much of the subject matter deals with the fear, the literal and metaphorical isolation revolving around the pandemic, the resulting political turmoil, the disintegration of truth and decline of a shared, common good

Hey knuckle draggers and chain swingers! Looking to add some dynamite to your pogo stick? Look no further!! Enzyme's Golden Dystopian Age LP is here! 4 years since Howling Minds LP, Enzyme's 2nd offering bends all odds and pushes the band's brand of noise punk to a new limit. Lots to process about this record, from the hyperactive drumming, catchy rhythm backbone by the bass, 1000 pedal stomp buzz saw noise/psychedelic sound scapes guitars, discordant terminator vocals that sound like they been recorded through a cheap boom box, cameo vocals from Hardcore Victim CEO & Phantasm vox Bernie, to the more noise & beats provided by hard techno unit NERVE AKA Joshua Wells makes for one perfect storm that these noise bent fuckers have managed to harness. 3 years to make, this record sounds and reads like a reflection of life living through the tightly sanctioned lockdowns, a state of uncertainty, helplessness, anxiety and fear, geographical and imposed isolation, natural disasters and civil unrest in Naarm (Melbourne) Australia. 8 relentless noise punk tracks for the new hell we live in. Golden Dystopian Age showcases Enzyme's never ending one sided romance with punk legends Confuse, Chaos U.K, Disorder but also exploring other influences like Anarcho punk, space rock, psychedelic rock, Metal and Gabber, Blasphemy! Is this punk future? It's as ugly as the world Enzyme sees. It's the Golden Dystopian Age

After their fabulous two singles - their debut released by STAG/O/LEE Records that was sold out in no time and their brilliant second 7" "Baseball" on SOUNDFLAT RECORDS - as well as their unforgettable live/performance at the Soundflat Records Ballroom Bash, we're ready for more from ADOLPHE SEX ET SES MACHINES! The Belgian&French group bring you their first LP and it is a blast! The boys have a fantastic 60s Hammond/R*B/French Beat/sound with a distinctive saxophone and a charismatic singer with his slightly dirty voice, that is unmistakably influenced by the Yéyé/stars of the French 60s, such as Nino Ferrer, Jacques Dutronc, Ronnie Bird etc. The MACHINES deliver a great version of Bill Doggett-s "The Worm" with a groovy hammond/organ and a naughty saxophone. They also cover the R*B/classic "Burnt Toast ^ Black Coffee" and opposed to their single on STAG/O/LEE they now turn it into a French version - or rather a Belgian version "Histoire Belge", that adds a Yéyé/touch to it. "Le Diable En Personne" is their seducing French version of "Shakin- All Over", the classic, originally by Johnny Kidd ^ The Pirates. Other than that their own compositions are no less superb. If it-s catchy instrumentals like "Poudre A Muscle" or "Vintage Girl" - with a heavy organ, the dirty saxophone, a cool fuzz/guitar - or danceable hits like "P-tite Sottie" and "Dis/lui" or even the funky song "Dis/le moi" that just has a high amount of coolness to it. The debut/album "Poudre A Muscle" by ADOLPHE SEX ET SES MACHINES is a must/have if you care for French 60s and R*B&Garage!

Italy-born, Dublin-based Lerosa is back on Assemble after eight years. With releases on labels like D1, Millions of Moments, Ostgut Ton, Acid Test, Uzuri, Hotmix and Ferox, he now returns to Assemble Music with his second solo EP. Four tracks crossing deep techno, acid, electro and breaks. Analog stuff!

Haven Trax welcomes a standout 12" from Dutch mainstay Michel de Hey. On the A-side, he delivers a warm and rolling house cut with a catchy piano melody, featuring the soulful vocals of Michael Sebastian -- a track that blends depth and emotion with undeniable floor appeal. The B-side sees Michel join forces with Orlando Voorn for a rawer, more stripped-back club workout. Two generations of Dutch electronic music finding common ground in groove, texture, and timeless dancefloor energy

- A1 > wicked tune you know Andy Martin
- A2 > innerwelt Sansibar
- B1 > elektrostatic rest IDA
- B2 > glakk Lewski

Savy Records celebrates its fifth year with Lumo, a new vinyl-only series built around the darker corners of the dance floor. The first edition gathers four artists whose productions move naturally through the night -- from tension and space to drive and release. The record opens with Andy Martin, a Mexican-Jamaican artist whose dub-infused "Wicked Tune You Know" nods to UK bass influences, with a percussive undertow and an addictively off-kilter synth line. Finnish favourite Sansibar makes his return to the label with "Innerwelt," a twisted electro cut laced with acid paranoia and washed-out vocals, slightly unsteady but always in motion. On the flip, IDA -- fellow Finnish export and SAVY label founder -- keeps things tight with "Electrostatic Rest," a straight-up electro roller built on clean drums and a classic electro bass, one to lock in the dancefloor groove with. Lewski closes with "Glakk," a machinated, bass-heavy analogue banger, driving up the tempo as it heads up the peak time. Lumo presents a darker, deeper side of Savy: one that nods to the underground, and cut for purpose as a vinyl-only release

Toronto's IMPLODERS return with their second long player, Targeted For Termination. Faster, rawer sounding and meaner than their debut, this one trims all the fat and goes straight for the gut with 12 new tracks, the longest hitting just 96 seconds. The sound still resides in classic hardcore from both sides of the border with the emphasis on punk (think Circle Jerks, Zero Boys and Angry Samoans). Lyrically they dive deeper into their world of annoyances, grievances and late nights of taking in the joys of both Heavy Metal (the movie) and Medieval Times (not for buffs). Housed in a sleeve with a vision of the future that could have come straight out of a cheap 50's sci-fi novel. Would you survive?

Funnily enough they also live in contiguous beach towns in the outskirts of the capital, Parede and Carcavelos. That's where they zig-zagged amid home-studios and, four hands in various machines, concocted this refreshingly to-the-bone record. Like a non-local entanglement between Lisbon, Sheffield, The Hague and somewhere in the American Midwest, 'Gastric Pulse' EP opens with a saturated, modulated acid line over a tight, industrial-tinged techno beat, peppered with sonic dirt of the highest order. It sounds like music projects like Downwards and Mathematics would put out. 'Enzyme Breaks' follows suit with a comparably raw spirit, adding some mysterious atmospheric scintillation and drum variations. A certain recluse techno (is that a thing?) comes to mind (and heart), Unit Moebius style. Toms abound in 'Pepsin Drive' - always a promising sign in our book - and the playfulness continues in the cheeky bassline and the intricate clap work. Soulful stabs give the tune extra magic via the mantra-like structuring power of repetition. The final track in the record comes from Pacific North-West transplant Doc Sleep and her collaborator Elias FS step in for remix responsibilities and flip the B1 into a hypnotic, dubby - and yes, jazzy - piece complete with a dive into glitchy, sonic sculpture territories towards the end of the arrangement. Quite the brilliant take. Music still counts (and always will), after all is said and done - and nothing like two hard-working music-makers to remind us of that

SECONDS starred Rock Hudson - in an astonishing change of pace, as the film campaign ads said - as an unhappy middle-aged banker who agrees to a procedure that will fake his death and give him a completely new look and identity. But it comes with its own price. Jerry Goldsmith's fascinating score take us on a musical journey through one of his finest works, building on the psychological complexity of scores such as FREUD and his work on THE TWILIGHT ZONE while anticipating the effective contrast of sacred and profane on future projects such as his OMEN trilogy. The soundtrack of SECONDS was released 13 years ago in CD on La-La Land Records, paired with the Goldsmith score for I.Q. Mono music stems were the only source available at the time, and they remain so today since the session masters are gone. But thanks to new technology that has appeared in the intervening decade, this vinyl edition - produced, restored and mastered by Chris Malone - has been significantly improved, eliminating all dialogue bleed and other defects inherent in the sources, as well as allowing us the opportunity to present all score cues as heard in the film. This audiophile LP edition has been pressed in 180 GM ultra clean transparent vinyl, cut at 45 RPM for best sound quality, and it's limited to 500 units only

A1 > the dilly song	Recorded whilst I was starring as H.R. Pufnstuf in the titular US documentary of the same name, Earth Covers Earth followed up the apocalyptic SingSong Sounds of Swastikas For Noddy with another clutch of classic C93 chimes, none of which bothered the Hit Parade In Any Way Ever. Many of the songs on this beautiful album have been tattooed on the inner thighs of the Illuminati. The drugs had stopped working, and I was staring into several voids, as I couldn't focus on anything, whilst Moving Waves played in the foreground and background and in the underground tube too. Remastered from the original tapes by The Bricoleur at Bladud Flies!, and with the original artwork refreshed and reborn by Rob Hopeye, this 12" vinyl picture-disc comes in a full-colour die-cut sleeve, which is printed on both the outside and inside. This is one of the second group of 4 reissues of the entire back catalogue of C93 on picture-disc and standard vinyl, in the lead-up to the publication of my autobiography at the end of 2026, whilst I also work on many other recording, publishing, and painting projects, and Watch And Pray! Crafted at Amp's legendary home studio, the album captures the essence of Detroit through rich instrumentation, gospel-infused harmonies, and unfiltered soul. Blending house, funk, techno, and 70s groove, Take Me As I Am embodies the city's spirit; timeless, raw, and full of life. Featuring collaborations with Detroit icons Andrés, Eddie Fowlkes, and Waajeed, standout tracks like 'You're The One For Me', 'Glory', and 'What Would You Do' showcase the trio's unmatched energy and vocal chemistry. Across fourteen tracks, Athena Johnson, Teresa Marbury, and LaRae Starr channel the soul of Motown, the groove of Parliament Funkadelic, and the power of Aretha Franklin, uniting their influences into one authentic, uplifting sound. With nearly a decade of releases on Defected and its sub-labels, including collaborations with Sophie Lloyd, The Vision, Floorplan, and Horse Meat Disco, Dames Brown continue to shine as one of Detroit's most dynamic vocal collectives. 'Take Me As I Am' is more than an album... it's a declaration of love, legacy, and Detroit soul

His first solo release on Hot Creations since 2022's 'Bionic Boy' EP, it's a track designed to move, mesmerize, and captivate with every listen. Rolling basslines, intricate percussion, and a subtle tension pulse beneath the playful surface, making it a record built for late nights, festival main stages, and intimate spaces alike. It's a statement of intent, and a reminder of why Jamie's groove-driven productions continue to set the standard for house music worldwide. Next up Darius Syrossian returns to Hot Creations with 'Bass In Ya Face', featuring Cortez Walls is a driving, bass-fuelled floor-filler that combines weighty low-end grooves with hooky vocals. On the flip, Joe Rolét makes his Hot Creations debut with this summer's underground anthem. Enter: 'No Hesitating', the definition of a bassline mover. Stacked with rave-ready pressure and designed for full dancefloor impact, it's a cut that has already been road-tested to devastating effect by Rolét himself alongside names such as Chris Stussy, Max Dean, and the Hot Creations head honcho himself, quickly becoming one of the most sought-after IDs of the year. Finally Manchester's AJ Christou is back on Hot Creations with the incredibly infectious: 'Bang Bang', which leads with crisp percussion, slinky grooves, and a hook that's been igniting AJ's sets worldwide

Mesmerising album of Yokota's earliest sonic explorations that demonstrates his unique vision and sublime transcendence of boundaries. 'Image 1983-1998' is a collection of short miniatures, composed in two different time periods. Tracks 1-5 were recorded with guitar and organ between 1983-4 and tracks 6-12 were composed through 97-98, being inspired by the earlier material. A musical scrapbook, or sonic design board. The sleeve notes give an insight into Yokota's belief in a close connection between music, memory and his active imagination: 'Encountering Acid House made me visualise music – I could clearly see the sounds sparkling... this experience led me to create electronic music.'

 A1 > we stood in fields of light	Replicant Memories is the seismic fallout from the clash between bvdub and East of Oceans: two of Brock Van Wey's three aliases representing different stylistic directions, while being vessels for the same unbridled oceanic creativity. Within the four chapters of this epic, the bottomless emotion of bvdub melts into the euphoria of East of Oceans, electricity discharging and mists rising from their collision while they together reach new heights of intensity. This music changes you. Like being exposed to forces of nature, there is no holding back and no place to hide within its wild embrace. It is music for surrendering into. And be left in gratitude for

Legendary New York hardcore pioneers AGNOSTIC FRONT return with "Echoes In Eternity," their most ferocious and unflinching album in decades. Signed to Reigning Phoenix Music, the band deliver 15 tracks of blistering riffs, unapologetic truth, and street-born authenticity. From the politically charged opener 'Way Of War' to the anthemic 'Turn Up The Volume' and the powerful collaboration with hip-hop icon DMC on 'Matter Of Life & Death,' the record is a relentless testament to resilience and rebellion. Raw energy, pit-ready hooks, and uncompromising lyrical honesty make "Echoes In Eternity" a masterclass in true NYHC spirit. Four decades in, AGNOSTIC FRONT remain a force to be reckoned with: louder, harder, and more vital than ever

- B1 > rising soul (version) Jan Kincl rmx

Laseech, a Croatian producer and Cosada label owner with releases on BBE, Lumberjacks In Hell, Red Ember Records, and Forbidden Dance, is continuing a string of excellent releases with Rising Soul. Known for his dedication to house music, Laseech has built an international reputation through collaborations and remixes with some of the genre's most respected architects, including Ron Trent, Patrice Scott, Javonnnte, and Dego. "Rising Soul is actually one of the first tracks I did back in 2017 while I was heavily into sampling. I was jamming with my MPC1000, and Rising Soul came up. I never thought that it would become such an effective song that works on the dancefloor every time." Laseech explains. Kez YM, a highly respected Japanese producer and DJ, has been a key figure in the global house music scene for almost two decades. Originally from Chiba and now based in Berlin, his unique approach to house music has led to releases on esteemed labels such as City Fly, Faces Records, Yore, and 4Lux. When describing his version of the track, Kez simply stated: "VIBES." Well, no one will argue with that. The last version comes from Cycle Records' founder Jan Kincl, a prominent Croatian music producer and DJ with releases on labels like BBE, Far Out, Sonar Kollektiv, and Get Physical. "I've been playing Andrej's original for years. He undoubtedly made some good stuff recently, but this one remains among my firm favourites from him. Kez delivered a beautiful version that took it further towards jazz territory, so I decided to make a version that would bridge those two." Jan explains. "I knew we could build a very good record around Rising Soul, with versions that would give DJs different options for different moments during the party. I guess we did a good job because some of the early supporters include DJs from all over the place - Laurent Garnier, Alex Barck from Jazzanova, Marcel Dettmann, Alex Nut (Eglo), Sasse, Chicago's K' Alexi Shelby, Lakuti, Ian Friday and Truncate, among others

- A1 > afrofuturism
- A2 > what happened to the underground
- B1 > dance with me feat. MDMA
- B2 > sunday's aint the same dub

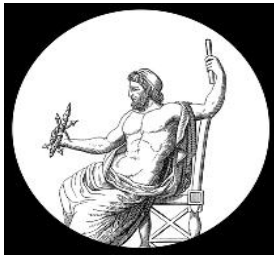

Following our acclaimed Chez Damier release, Skylax proudly welcomes back the brilliant Byron The Aquarius. A true craftsman from Alabama, Byron blends the spirit of Detroit's deep house with live jazz energy, echoing legends like Theo Parrish and Moodymann. This new EP, Afrofuturism, is a statement of intent: four deeply musical tracks rooted in soulful rhythm and cosmic funk. From the spiritual groove of the title track to the introspective dub of Sunday's Ain't The Same, this is Byron in top form — keys blazing, grooves flowing. With past releases on Sound Signature, Axis, Eglo, Apron, and Shall Not Fade, Byron's music continues to light up the underground from Detroit to Berlin. Artwork by H5 — the legendary studio behind visuals for Daft Punk, Air, and Vitalic. Whether you're a house head or jazz lover, Afrofuturism is a timeless piece for real dancers and dreamers. Strictly for the heads. Vinyl only. No repress. Skylax Records
